Background

Resscapital wants to contribute to a sustainable development. Our guiding principle is to contribute to a sustainable development actively and responsibly, by ensuring that our business activities are carried out in a manner that maintains the company's values and with respect for people, our society, the environment, natural resources, and climate. Resscapital shall meet and exceed the expectations that the company's stakeholders have in relation to our business activities.

By making decisions that fairly balance the claims of various stakeholders, Resscapital shall contribute to a sustainable development and assume its share of responsibility for the common financial, social, and environmental aspects of the world around us. In terms of corporate responsibility, Resscapital's stakeholders include clients, owners, employees, business partners, the environment and society (such as civil society and the public sector), as well as stakeholders affected by our business.

The purpose of this policy is to provide guidance for Resscapital and all its employees on how our sustainability efforts are to be carried out and the values our company stands for. Furthermore, the policy gives investors and other stakeholders information about the company's commitment to sustainability. The sustainability efforts are clearly linked to the business activities and the value-creating processes of the company.

Commitment

At Resscapital, we are convinced that the future challenges we face will place new demands on us as managers of our clients' capital. Through our work with responsible investments, we contribute to a more long-term investment climate where environmental, social, and corporate governance (ESG) factors are included in the investment process. Responsible investments thus become an important prerequisite for achieving our goal of generating good long-term returns. Resscapital is a signatory to the UN-supported initiative Principles for Responsible Investment (PRI) and complies with international conventions. Read more about UN PRI at the end of this document.

Sustainability areas

Resscapital in its investments promotes environmental and social characteristics, but do not make any sustainable investments. Resscapital assessment is that our investment products promote social factors. Resscapital assessment is that our investment product does not have a negative impact on the environment or the global climate. Resscapital, for our investors, buy US life insurance policies from individual consumers. This purchase involves a transaction where the fund becomes the owner and the beneficiary of the specific policy. Thus, the transaction will only result in a change of contracting parties. Consequently, the transaction will not lead to any activity that can have 1) negative impact on the efforts to mitigate climate change through the emission of greenhouse gases, and 2) negative effect on other environmental factors like biodiversity, water, and waste. Therefore, Resscapital assessment is that our investment products do not promote environmental factors.

Sustainability in the investment process

Resscapital manages a portfolio of US life insurance policies. Life insurance policies are purchased from US households who no longer need life insurance coverage. The company therefore enables individual households to receive compensation for an unneeded insurance policy, for which premiums have been paid during many years.

The secondary market for US life insurance policies is regulated in most US states. The legislation regulating the market is there to safeguard the individual policyholder's, i.e., the consumer's interest.

When Resscapital purchases life insurance policies, the company uses intermediaries / brokers who facilitate the sale of life insurance policies from policyholders to financial investors. Resscapital only invest through counterparties who are registered and authorized according to the state legislation in the state where the transaction takes place.

To enable the individual household to make an informed decision, it is important that the sales process is transparent. Therefore, brokerage fees should be reported according to the state regulation. In addition, the consumer should receive information about the possible repurchase price that the life insurance company is willing to pay for the insurance policy.

For most life insurance policies, it is usually the policyholder's spouse or children who are beneficiaries. It is a requirement that these beneficiaries' consent in writing to the sale of the life insurance policy. In addition, the policyholder must certify that he, or she, makes a conscious choice to sell the life insurance policy. The legislation aims to protect the consumer's freedom of choice and ensure that the sales process is transparent and correct.

Resscapital, as a manager of a portfolio of life insurance policies, will also receive personal data and health information about the individual policyholders. It is imperative that this information is treated in a confidential manner and with utmost respect for the integrity of each individual. All personal data is stored on protected servers and no documents containing any personal data are stored in paper format.

In the document Sustainability Information available on the Company's webpage, more detailed information can be found on Resscapital's commitment to sustainable investment and the company's position relative to Regulation (EU) 2019/2088 on the sustainability-related disclosure in the financial service sector. The document also describes how sustainability is integrated in the management of the fund Ress Life investments, that Resscapital manages.

Resources

Resscapital mainly uses internal analysis when designing and evaluating the company's sustainability strategy. The company has also commissioned external consultants to analyse various ethical aspects in relation to the life insurance market and how these should be handled.

In the case of the life insurance market, Resscapital participates several times every year in international conferences attended by managers, brokers, and service providers. In this context, Resscapital supports initiatives aimed at improving ethical guidelines for the industry.

Resscapital is a member of ILMA (The Institutional Longevity Markets Association). ILMA is a trade association comprised of several of the world's leading institutional investors and intermediaries in the mortality and longevity marketplace, formed to encourage the prudent and competitive development of a suite of evolving mortality and longevity related financial businesses, including the businesses of life settlements. ILMA acknowledges that prudent regulation of the life settlement market is critically important to a consumer's ability to acquire such assets and to realize all the economic opportunities associated therewith. To help bring consensus among the various life insurance companies, life settlement providers, brokers, banks, financial institutions, and other participants in the life settlement market and to facilitate the promulgation of appropriate regulation and the development of industry "best practices," ILMA has formulated guiding principles to be considered when conducting business in this market. More information about ILMA and the guiding principles can be found on www.lifemarketsassociation.org.
